Marion Hospital Census Reaches New High of 92

In Meantime, Proposal for Enlarged Facilities Awaits Action.

A census of 92—an all time high for Marion's 50-bed city hospital—was recorded yesterday.

Today, releases of 14 patients had brought the population down to 78.

In the meantime, the matter of getting a temporary addition to the hospital rests in Washington.

Mayor Russell C. Snare said this morning that as far as he has been notified, it is a matter of priorities for materials.

Following a meeting Dec. 16 of city council, the hospital planning commission, and members of the Lima architect firm of McLaughlin & Associates, it was announced that taking of bids for the temporary addition should start about Feb. 15.

The designs and plans for the temporary addition to provide approximately 51 extra beds, and the architect's contract were approved by council on Dec. 18.

The plans were submitted to the federal works agency regional office in Chicago. Recently the mayor received a letter from Ernest Kitchen, FWA priorities coordinator in the Chicago office, that he had written the FWA priority coordinator in Washington "to impress on him the urgent need of the hospital."

At about the same time, the Lima architect firm notified the mayor that it had written to the chief of the hospital section of the war production board, asking for his cooperation to speed the job through.

Yesterday there were three beds in the hall of the maternity ward on second floor of the hospital.

Twelve babies were born between 7:20 p. m. Friday and 5:18 p. m. yesterday, bringing the ward's population to 40 mothers and babies. This morning, enough mothers and babies had gone home to get the three beds out of the hall and the mothers properly provided for in rooms.

Yesterday Mrs. Mary J. Taylor, superintendent, brought into use nurses' beds that were used at a time when the nurses were on 12-hour shifts and had rest periods.

Prior to yesterday and Saturday, when the census was 86, the all-time high was 80, recorded last August.

MORRAL SOLDIER IS ITALIAN PRISONER

Pvt. John William Koontz Missing Since Feb. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Koontz of Morral received word today from the War department in Washington that their son, Pvt. John William Koontz, is a prisoner of the Italian government.

Pvt. Koontz was reported missing in action on March 1. The parents previously were notified that their son had been missing since Feb. 2.

One of the men in the first invasion of North Africa, Pvt. Koontz went into military training on Oct. 21, 1941, as a artilleryman at Camp Wheeler, Ga.

He was last home in March, 1942. Shortly afterward he was sent to Ireland and later to England.

The last letter his family received from him arrived on Jan. 6. He told them at that time that he had received his Christmas package and he described briefly his new surroundings.

Before entering service he was employed in Toledo by the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad. His father, who formerly worked on the same railroad, is now employed at the Oxford, Co.

8 U. S. FLIERS RESCUED
LONDON, March 8—A German radio broadcast recorded by The Associated Press said today that eight American airmen had been rescued from rubber lifeboats off Brittany after their four-motored bomber was forced down during a raid on the French coast.

FARM OR FIGHT ORDER LIKELY

4-H Class for Men Over 38 Dropped To Induce More To Help with Crops.

WASHINGTON, March 8—A job for the Army or behind a plow loomed as a possibility today for thousands of men 38 years old or more.

President Roosevelt was expected to receive recommendations soon from a special manpower survey committee headed by James F. Byrnes, the economic stabilization director.

Byrnes' group is reviewing the farm labor shortage, one of the most pressing problems on the domestic front. The committee, which includes Bernard M. Baruch, Harry Hopkins, Admiral William D. Leahy and Justice Samuel L. Rosenman of the New York supreme court, reportedly is ready to advise Mr. Roosevelt that the 1943 military goals of 10,000,000 men be maintained.

4-H Discontinued
Selective service headquarters advised local draft boards, meanwhile that men over 38 henceforth are not to be classified in the 4-H category. From now on they will be placed in the same general classes (1-A, 3-A, 4-F, etc.) as younger men.

The new draft order was designed primarily to encourage men over 38 to take up farming.

To accomplish this the order provides that men over 38 who are engaged in farm work by May 1 shall be reclassified into the farm deferment classes of 2-C for single men and 3-C for married men if they meet other farm deferment qualifications. Other men over 38 are to be put into the regular draft classifications.

The order will have no effect on men 38 and older, however.

RAYON STOCKING PRICES TO BE LOWERED APRIL 15

Cut to Run from Five to Forty Cents a Pair.

WASHINGTON, March 8—The office of price administration announced today it would cut the prices of women's rayon stockings by from five to 40 cents a pair April 15.

On that date, a new set of standard prices will go into effect and to help consumers enforce the new schedule, every pair will have to be stamped on the welt with exact information of the quality and legal price.

The price reduction, OPA said, will average 15 per cent, with heavier cuts due later for inferior grades.

Claiming such procedure necessary to prevent "chiseling" on the quality of women's hose, OPA set up rigid standards for "grade A" stockings, ordered that prices on grade B stockings be about 10 per cent less than grade A until July 16 and 25 per cent after that date.

The two dates on grade B prices were set to give stores and manufacturers time to get rid of inferior types, if they desire.

Another information permits stores with less than $250,000 annual business to charge between 9 and 15 cents more for stockings, than larger stores.

EIGHTH ARMY SMASHES 6 NAZI ATTACKS IN MARETH LINE AREA

RUSSIANS POUR THROUGH GAPS IN NAZI LINES

Two Columns Reported Advancing on German Base at Vyazma.

MOSCOW, March 8—The Red army rolled on westward today with fresh Soviet troops pouring into gaps in the German lines far west of Gzhatsk and south of Olenino where two Russian columns apparently are planning the doom of the important German base at Vyazma, 35 miles west of Gzhatsk.

The capture of more than a hundred more settlements was reported in the last 24 hours, while numerous others are falling continuously and still others are blocked by the Red army and on the verge of falling.

Winter weather still is gripping central and northern Russia, but during the day the fast climbing sun melts the top layers of snow and ice. They freeze again quickly when the shadows hit them.

Two large Red army forces are slicing large chunks out of the German lines and converging in the area northwest of Gzhatsk.

One of these forces, driving west and northwest from Gzhatsk, increased the threat to Vyazma from the front flank. The other, pushing south and southwest of Olenino, further increased the threat to this vital German base from the rear.

Although no exact distances were reported, Gzhatsk dispatches stated artillery fire from the fast moving, battlefront was barely distinguishable in the city, captured only Saturday.

Pravda reported the Red army was forcing the Germans from numerous settlements in Smolensk districts along a wide front.

The mid-day communique announced a further Soviet advance west of Sevsk, where several settlements were captured.

In the Don basin, in the district southwest of Voroshilovgrad, the Red army was reported fighting off attacks by large enemy forces of motorized infantry assisted by 60 tanks.

Twelve tanks were reported destroyed and a battalion of Germans killed as the attackers were beaten back to their initial positions.

Soldier from District Near Crestline Killed

CRESTLINE, March 8—Pfc. William Clifford Henninger, 34, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Henninger of four miles northeast of here, died at 4 a. m. Sunday at Daniel Field, Ga., shortly after he was injured in a truck accident. Word received by the family gave no details of the accident.

He was born May 29, 1908 at Vestaburg, Mich., and enlisted for Army service Feb. 11, last year at Crestline. The parents and a brother, John Henninger of Gallon, survive.

The body will be brought to Crestline, accompanied by a military escort, and taken to the Orie Garverick funeral home.

Newsman Finds Allied Situation Still Precarious in Pacific Area

By C. YATES McDANIEL, AP War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, March 8—What I have just seen and heard during a 10,000-mile trip over the southwestern Pacific area enables me to understand apprehension expressed in authoritative quarters lest world reaction to allied victory in the Bismarck sea prove too enthusiastic and optimistic.

Such reaction, these quarters believe, tends to create the impression destruction of the 22-ship Japanese convoy not only has eliminated the enemy threat in this area but may also force the enemy to abandon much of his bases in the island chain north of Australia. These conclusions are not supported here.

I was in the air much of the time during the period of the Bismarck sea action. Many thoughtful officers say the allies still are operating on a dangerously narrow margin of safety. My observations tended to support this view.

Allies Rain Bombs On Japanese Bases; See New Turn In War

Belief General That United Nations Are Shifting to Offensive in Pacific Theater.

By The Associated Press
United Nations air power poured an increasing cascade of bombs on the Japanese from the Solomons to Burma, allied communique announced today, as dispatches from the United States Pacific fleet reported a general feeling among warship crews the war in the Pacific was entering a new phase.

The widespread belief by the men who man the Navy's guns that the allies are shifting to the offensive in that theater, as well as the European front, was given a boost by the smashing success of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen in destroying a 22-ship Japanese convoy off New Guinea last week.

Conceding the defeat the Japanese imperial headquarters today made its first grudging admission, though it was only a half-way acknowledgment in the light of allied communique from Australia.

The Japanese communique admitted two of the Mikado's destroyers and live of his transports had been lost in the Solomons. New Guinea area between Feb. 16 and March 5, a period covered by the convoy battle and numerous bombings in the Solomons as well.

The Japanese communique made no mention of approximately 15,000 Japanese soldiers in the sinking of the convoy, which Gen. MacArthur said consisted of three light cruisers, seven destroyers and 12 transports.

Admits Some Losses
Tokyo also acknowledged the loss of only seven planes in that period, although MacArthur's communique announced 102 of the enemy's aircraft were put out of the convoy battle alone.

On the other hand the Japanese claimed to have shot down 113 allied planes and to have sunk four allied submarines.

The latest communique from Australia told of allied attacks on Japanese airfields from the Kai Islands, northwest of Australia, to Gasmata and Gloucester, New Britain, and said two flights of allied attack planes made 31 strafing passes near Mubo, which allied jungle patrols apparently are approaching in their drive toward Salamaua, New Guinea.

Another Japanese ship was said to have been bombed off the northern coast of New Guinea.

The most ambitious attempt of the Japanese to retaliate was at Goodenough island, off eastern New Guinea, where 15 enemy planes attacked without causing damage or casualties.

Surprisingly, not a single Japanese plane was reported shot down.

Selection of Mr. Jones was made by Mr. Mounts, auditor Judge Oscar Gast of the probate court and Mrs. Grace Zachman, county recorder. He will serve until a successor is elected in November 1944. Mr. Jones' appointment was agreed upon by the three officials and no applications were accepted by the county officials.

Mr. Jones is a Republican. Other members of the board are William J. Risch, Republican and H. G. Kraner, Democrat.

CLASS SESSION TONIGHT

Classes in production control II and industrial safety engineering will start tonight at Harding high school and will be held two nights a week with two-hour sessions for 12 weeks. The classes are being sponsored by The Marion Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with Ohio State university and the public schools.

NO COUPONS NEEDED FOR GARDEN SEEDS

Peas and Beans Are Available Without Stamps.

WASHINGTON, March 8—Victory gardeners may buy without ration coupons dry peas and beans for planting seed, the office of price administration said today.

The OPA explained that local ration boards had power to authorize such purchases without coupons.

Other points made in response to inquiries from the public were: Extra coupons for babies or sick persons, blind, or crippled persons can be obtained from local boards on presentation of doctor's certificates.

Sellers of other servicemen having seven or more days full-time can obtain temporary ration books by bringing thorough papers to a ration board. If the full-time is less than seven days, no ration is provided.

For special occasions, such as a church supper, ration coupons may be obtained from local boards.

SPEAKS AT O. W. U.

VICE PRESIDENT WALLACE

WALLACE CITES WAY TO PEACE

Vice President Addresses Religious Conference at Ohio Wesleyan.

By The Associated Press
DELAWARE, O., March 8—Vice President Henry A. Wallace asserted today a third world war appeared inevitable unless the western democracies and Russia reached a satisfactory understanding before the present conflict ends.

"We shall decide some time in 1943 or 1944 whether to plant the seeds for World War No. 3," Wallace said in an address prepared for broadcast over the Blue network at the opening of a conference on "Christian Bases of World Order" at Ohio Wesleyan university.

"That war will be certain if we allow Russia to remain either materially or psychologically," the vice president said. "That war will be probable in case we double-cross Russia. That war will be probable if we fail to demonstrate that we can furnish full employment after this war comes to an end and Fascist interests motivated largely by anti-Russian bias get control of our government."

Unless the western democracies and Russia come to a satisfactory understanding before the war ends, I very much fear that World War No. 3 will be inevitable. Without a close and trusting understanding between Russia and the United States, there is grave probability of Russia and Germany sooner or later making common cause.

Leaders from representative Protestant denominations are attending the three-day conference at the Methodist school to outline religious principles for world post-war readjustment.

"If the western democracies furnish full employment and expanding production, they need have no fear of a revival of old-line communist propaganda from within" after the war, Wallace asserted.

"If they do not furnish full employment, Communist propaganda of this kind is inevitable and there is nothing which the present government or any other government can do to stop it."

"It is my belief that democracy is the only true expression of Christianity." If we want peace, we must treat other nations in the spirit of democratic Christianity.

"Throughout history, every big nation has been given an opportunity to do as it pleased."

HEAVY LOSSES INFLICTED ON GERMAN FORCE

Enemy Attack Against First Army in Northern Tunisia Also Weakens.

By The Associated Press
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 8—Marshal Erwin Rommel's initial smashes at the British Eighth army have failed completely and "round one is over" with his tanks and infantrymen in retreat toward Mareth line positions north and northwest of Medenine, a competent military source said today.

"Round one has been won by the Eighth army," he added.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's men, after stepping two German attacks Saturday morning, decimated four more thrusts in the course of the afternoon and forced Rommel to withdraw again into the hills, it was announced.

Battered by ground fire and harassed by aerial bombardments, 33 of Rommel's tanks were destroyed while not a single British tank was knocked out, a communique disclosed.

The heavy action at the southern end of the Tunisian front was accompanied by aggressive allied aerial activity and local attacks in the north and destructive aerial blows at an axis convoy sighted in the Mediterranean between Sicily and Tunisia.

33 Tanks Destroyed
"It is now confirmed that 33 enemy tanks were completely destroyed without the loss of a single British tank during the fighting on the sixth of March," a bulletin said.

"It was declared flatly that Rommel's thrusts from the Mareth line against positions of the Eighth army, still preparing for its offensive against the Nazi fortifications, had failed."

Allied bombers were credited with sinking two ships, leaving another sinking and firing live, and destroying six "according to planes in attack on an axis convoy between Sicily and Tunisia."

Other heavy bombers attacked the port of Sousse, where hits were observed on a large ship, on the quays and warehouses, and on the railway yards, the communique said.

Unfavorable weather limited aerial activity in the northern sector of Tunisia.

"In the southern area attacks were made on retreating enemy forces," the bulletin reported. "Constant patrols were maintained by our fighters, in the course of which new enemy aircraft were destroyed."

The communique said all allied planes involved in the day's operations were safe.

Allies Gain In North
Allied forces in northern Tunisia, meanwhile had seized the initiative against Col. Gen. Jürgen Von Arnim's army based at Tunisia and Bizerte after throwing off a large-scale German offensive designed to take the pressure off Rommel's northwestern flank.

(The Algiers radio, as heard by the London "Daily Mail," said that while fighting continued in the Mareth area, "Rommel's defeat in front of the Mareth line is graver than the previous one.")

Meeker Couple Vice President Speaks at O. W. U. First Aid Classes At LaRue Finish Training

Examinations will be conducted Tuesday night at Legion Hall in LaRue for the boys section of the first aid classes last Wednesday night and are now being given assignments in the U. S. citizens defense corps of the LaRue area.

Since last July, first aid classes have been conducted weekly in the LaRue area, mostly under the instruction or direction of John W. Seizinger, first aid instructor of the Scioto Ordnance plant. Mr. Seizinger is an authorized first aid and life saving instructor, and a member of the National First Aid Association.

The splendid service rendered by Mr. Seizinger has helped much in the success of the LaRue Citizens Defense Corps, which, during the past year has gained state recognition and a high rating among the rural defense areas.

"German boys have been systematically trained in brutality. German girls have been systematically trained to believe that their supreme duty is to be mothers, married or unmarried, of children dedicated to the service of the fatherland and the fuhrer. Through the use of mystic ceremonies—pagan dances, bonfires, sun festivals on mountains tops, and many other types of ritual—both boys and girls have been trained to look upon Hitler as divine and they pray to him as God."

"Doubtless thousands of German boys will come home from the war bitterly disillusioned of Prussianism and Hitlerism. Thousands of both young and old at home will feel the same way. They will honestly want to help build a new democratic Germany, and we, without yielding at all to the old warlike spirit of Prussia, should encourage them to try. We shall need the help of all Germans who give convincing evidence that they do not subscribe to the 'master race' myth and are genuinely opposed to the doctrine that might makes right."

"Now I want to talk about Marxism. This philosophy in some ways is the child of Prussianism, because Marx, its high priest, was molded in his thinking by Hegel, the great philosopher of the Prussian state. Marxism has used the Cheka, just as Prussianism has used the Gestapo, but it has never preached internationalism as an instrument of national policy. It does not believe one race is superior to another. Many of the Marxian activities of the last 10 years which people of the west have most condemned have been inspired by fear of Germany. The Russian people, who are the chief believers in Marxism, are fundamentally more religious than the Prussians. The great fear of the Russian people is still hunger, for spiritual food. The Russians have a better opportunity to find that spiritual food than the Prussians under their regime, which glorifies the violence of the old Teutonic gods."

"The future well-being of the old world depends upon the extent to which Marxism, as it is being progressively modified in Russia, and democracy, as we are adapting it to twentieth century conditions, can live together in peace. Old-line Marxism has held that democracy is mere words, that it serves the cause of the common man with platitudes rather than with jobs, and that belief in its results in a weak governmental organization. And we who believe in democracy must admit that modern science, invention and technology have provided us with new bottles into many of which we have not yet poured the wine of the democratic spirit."

"After this war is over, the democratic capitalistic nations will need to prove that they are supremely interested in full employment and full utilization of natural resources. They will need to demonstrate that the consuming power of their people can be made to equal their productive power. The right to work at a regular job and for a decent wage is essential to the true dignity of man."

"We shall decide sometime in

Totalitarianism and Democracy Mixed Up in New Manpower Draft Proposal

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A bill introduced in the House today to amend the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, and to provide for the draft of men for the armed forces, is a bill which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy.

The bill, introduced by Representative William C. Sullivan of New York, is a bill which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy. It is a bill which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy.

Under the bill, the government is to have the right to draft men for the armed forces. This is a right which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy.

The bill is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy. It is a bill which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy.

But now comes the draft of men for the armed forces. This is a right which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy.

The bill is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy. It is a bill which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy.

There is no argument about what the bill would do. It would make males, from 18 to 65, and females, from 18 to 50, subject to drafting for any industry which Mr. Roosevelt would consider essential to the war.

The bill is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy. It is a bill which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy.

With a fourth term coming up, it is obvious, also, that he could consider Mr. Wilkie's legal business.

The bill is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy. It is a bill which is a mixture of totalitarianism and democracy.

"U. S. Can Outfight Japs"

Naval Officer Says Americans Better, Man for Man.

MOBILE, Ala., March 2.—Purification in nine major naval battles has convinced Lieut. Alan Nibbs of New London, Conn., communications and tactical officer aboard a heavy cruiser, that "Ship-to-ship, man-to-man, the United States can outfight the Japs any day of the week—and Sunday, too."

The 31-year-old officer participated in the battles of Tulagi, Coral Sea and Midway, and took part in the raids on the Gilbert Islands, as well as the Solomon Islands. He fought in the Armistice day attack off Guadalcanal.

Have the Japs Number

Lieut. Nibbs said the Coral Sea battle was "our first baptism with fire," and added that things went pretty well, and ever since every man aboard the ship has felt that, ship-to-ship, man-to-man, we can outfight the Japs any day of the week.

The naval officer said that stories about Jap suicide dives were true, but only to the extent that they died aboard the nearest ship if they saw they were going to crash anyway.

He said he saw it happen during the battle of the Coral Sea.

"One Jap plane, after it had released its bomb, was hit heavily and began to blaze. At the time he was about 50 yards off the ship, and knowing he couldn't get away, he dove into a nearby ship, crashing squarely into the forecastle."

Enemy Plane Blew Up

"There was a terrific flame as the Jap plane hit the ship," Lieut. Nibbs said. "The American sailors put out the fire without losing their place in formation at the same time continuing their fight against oncoming waves of planes."

Describing the Armistice day engagement off Guadalcanal, in which 21 twin-engine Army torpedoes and seven Jap Zeros came in to attack, Lieut. Nibbs said: "We worked until they were close enough to open fire. All the ships let go a terrific barrage. At times the bursts from our guns were so heavy we couldn't make out planes in that section."

"When the action was over we counted 14 enemy planes on the water. Two Japs were blown up by direct hits."

Lieut. Nibbs said one of the "most exciting" battles in the Pacific was the battle of the Coral Sea.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO
It was Wednesday, March 3, 1933.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, on the third day of the four-day nationwide bank holiday, announced currency would be used rather than clearing house certificates or scrip as originally planned when banks resumed business the following day.

The federal bureau of prohibition revised its policies sharply, ordering agents to leave speaking engagements to the states and to concentrate on eliminating liquor supply sources.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
It was Thursday, March 8, 1923.

Capt. Frank H. Schofield of the U. S. Navy declared in Washington this country would have to spend $300,000,000 to attain a "second to none" navy authorized by the 5-5-3 treaty. He pointed out the American Navy was far outclassed by the British fleet and that Japan was rapidly building fast cruisers and submarines which could visit the Pacific area of America and return without refueling.

A. J. Berridge of Harrisburg, Pa., was visiting his mother, Mrs. John Berridge of Uncapher avenue.

Edward F. Sharpless arrived in Marion from New York, accompanied by Herman Frohlich of Vienna, brother of Mrs. Sharpless. The Modern Priscilla club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Detweiler of South Prospect street.

Muse in Court
OKLAHOMA CITY — District Judge Albert C. Hunt is no poet but he struggled up to the occasion when, in a reply to a summons to jury duty, the wife of Mark Gray wrote:

"Mark's out in mid-ocean, I wish I knew where.
Dressed in a sailor's suit, doing his share.
I'm just a small person, but for example, and even business difficulties are dealt with and reports are flashed back to India. The policy is not merely humanitarian, for the welfare authorities know that a worried arman is not an efficient fighter."

Don't Be Sap Enough To Starve Betting Against Fourth Term Professional Gamblers Aren't

By DAMON RUNYON

DR. GALLUP, the poll man, has given a forecast of the future of the fourth term of President Roosevelt. He has said that the chances for reelection are about even.

(1) Will President Roosevelt run for a fourth term?

(2) What are his chances for reelection if he does?

The good doctor's number is indicated by the first question because that is just the same as asking folks if they think there is any real, unnumbered certainty in death and taxes, especially taxes.

Even the little children in the street know that President Roosevelt will run for a fourth term. If indeed he may not be said to be a ready runner. The good doctor's announcement that his poll shows that six out of every 10 voters think he will run causes one to wonder about the intelligence of the dissembling four in 10.

To questions of this nature, I go to my friends the professional price-makers who pay the prices they quote and whose opinion is more studied than the run-of-mill opinion of the good doctor's interrogates.

The price-makers (well, call 'em bookmakers if you like) have had President Roosevelt there on the board at one to four to run for a fourth term for some time, and that is with any conditions. He is no price at all if he is still going on. That is, the price-makers would not book against the proposition of President Roosevelt running at any odds. As to his chances of reelection, the price with the war still going on is about one to eight, regardless of his opponent, and without the war around a money, depending on the opponent.

THESE ARE future book quotations, you understand, with the election 15 months away. A lot of things can happen in 18 months, especially with a war in progress. Some of the price-makers are of the opinion that even if the war ends between now and shortly before election, the price on the proposition of President Roosevelt running should be very short on the theory that he will most certainly want to have a hand in the writing of the terms of peace.

There is no outstanding prospect for future book betting as an opponent to President Roosevelt, either in his own party for the nomination or among Republicans for the election. A curious situation, indeed. As a rule, there are numerous prospects around on both sides for at least a couple of years before pastime. You can practically write your own ticket on a guess at the nomination on either side, outside of President Roosevelt.

THE REPUBLICAN who is being most discussed by the political experts is John W. Bricker of Ohio, but he is little known to the country at large—much less so than Thomas E. Dewey or Wendell Wilkie. Dewey would be the shortest price had he not scratched out of the race Wilkie would have to react to the miracle of Philadelphia to get the Republican nomination again, which strikes the price-makers as so improbable that you can get a real nice price against him. Good. Even I think, with wind-up favorite for the Republican nomination if Dewey remains out, and against the possibility, of course, that some bloke or jeebark might come thundering out of the wicker of war to catch the imagination of the people.

Fir Flies at Hitler

By H. W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK—Now Uncle Sam is going to start throwing trees at Hitler, in the guise of a new form of smokeless powder.

The process was developed by the Hercules Powder Company. Cotton is used in making smokeless powder. But there wasn't enough cotton available for the American war program.

Wood, used already to make rayon, was a natural aid to piece out the cotton. But use of wood pulp resulted in powder of uncertain quality.

The Hercules Company put research men on the job.

There have been two results: Good wood pulp smokeless powder, and an increase in output of the explosive due to improved manufacturing methods.

The Weyerhaeuser Timber Company of Longview, Wash., cooperated in the development. The wood methods were adapted so that the American pulp companies can contribute some wood for powder. One gain, predicted by the Hercules announcement, is a saving of $20,000,000 in 1943.

Several industrial designers I talked to agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Wilson.

Then he intimated, would come the "dream cars" of the future—new and lighter body designs, light airplane motors that use 100-octane gasoline and improved lubricants, more plastics and more rubber.

Several industrial designers I talked to agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Wilson.

News Moves Quickly

WASHINGTON — Members of the Royal Air Force stationed in India need not be left long in doubt about the welfare of their wives and families in Great Britain, according to a report received by the office of war information.

A branch of the welfare directorate at the air ministry investigates any case on request of members of the RAF. News of dangerously sick parents or children, for example, and even business difficulties are dealt with and reports are flashed back to India. The policy is not merely humanitarian, for the welfare authorities know that a worried arman is not an efficient fighter.

So They Say—

The American Red Cross begins the greatest single crusade of mercy in all history. In the Axis nations, mercy and decency are regarded as synonyms for weakness and decadence in our land it is from our great tradition of mercy that we take part of our strength.—Norman H. Davis of the Red Cross.

I cannot possibly describe the extent to which all of us, particularly those magnificent soldiers who fill the American units in North Africa, depend upon the American Red Cross.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The curse of God will bring about the fall of these civilizations and violent orders that deny corporal liberties.—Vatican statement.

Our goal is the triumph of democracy. It cannot be achieved without the complete destruction of the military and political power of totalitarianism.—Italian-American Labor Council.

The people of China and India are now turned to the conviction that we are not fighting for freedom as a principle of human life but to maintain ourselves with the British in a state of superiority.—Pearl S. Buck, author of "The East authority."

Old Chapel Bell Offered as Scrap

WASHINGTON—When the Boston firm of Paul Revere and Sons repaired the old King's Chapel bell yoke in 1818 the Revere firm did not know the yoke would serve in any way for freedom.

The metal yoke has been donated to the Boston Salvage Committee by the firm of King's Chapel, according to salvage officials.

In ancient Rome, an album was a book chalked or painted white, on which names were inscribed in black.

One of the greatest success stories of 1942

About a year ago, America was being asked to increase, substantially, its investment in War Bonds.

And no one knew, definitely, just what America's answer to that plea would be. Today, America's answer is clear—written down in black and white for any one to read. And the reading makes as heart-warming and inspiring a story as anything that has come out of this war. Here are some highlights...

In December 1941, there were 3½ million Americans who owned War Bonds. Today, there are over 50 million. A year ago that figure would have seemed fantastic. There is nothing in all history to match that record. Never before have so many people owned such a tremendous stake in their nation and its government.

In December 1941, some 700,000 people were investing about four and one-half percent of their earnings in War Bonds through the Pay-Roll Savings Plan. Today, the 700,000 has swelled to 26 million—the four and one-half percent to nine percent. The MONTHLY investment in War Bonds through the Pay-Roll Savings Plan has grown, in one year, from 8 to 400 million dollars.

Figures like that need little comment. They tell, better than any words, what happened when a free people decided among themselves to lend their government money. Money to help pay for fighting equipment—money to help keep prices down—money to insure peacetime goods and peacetime jobs and a generally decent world to which our fighting men can return.

Peacetime goods and jobs? A decent world? Think what 12 BILLION dollars' worth of War Bonds owned by Americans right now can mean in buying power to be released in the years after the war is won. Buying power that can set factories full of men to making millions of cars and radios and washing machines. Buying power that can set multitudes of other men to building a million new homes for impatient owners. Buying power that can mean better, richer living for every one of us.

And that 12 billion dollars is only a beginning.

For what we have done in '42 to win this war will not be enough to do in '43. Our whole war effort must be expanded. Not a one of us but knows that in the year ahead we must send more men—we must do more fighting—we must build more planes, more ships, more guns—more everything.

And to do this, we must buy more and more War Bonds.

Enough more so that when the record is in for 1943, America's War Bond buying will once again be one of the greatest success stories of the year.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"NO, HE ISN'T" sure of what I know," my father said, "but he will guess that by 'book' I mean 'document' and his guilty conscience will do the rest. He will wonder how much I know, and first of all he will get hold of Redfield and compare notes. That will keep Redfield occupied, so he won't have the opportunity to annoy Mary again tonight."

And tomorrow, when I will be called to rehearsal with Mary's understudy, after Mary's big accident is staged, I said, "and his worries about his own will be over. There will be no reason for his trying to see Mary."

"That is all to the good," my father said, "and it really is the reason why I staged this scene for Milner. If Steve made any more trouble for Mary I wouldn't be able to keep Philip Veritzen in line. He would insist on firing Redfield at once, and then one of the pipe lines I am tapping would be rendered useless."

Then he went to my bedroom, turning there for another word of explanation.

False Bait for Milner

"I'll go into the other suite now," he said, "and get hold of Adams. Milner thinks Adams is his own man, you know, so I shall give him such an account of my actions as I want him to pass on to Milner. I am planning it so that Milner will not conclude that I do not suspect him personally, but have a line on the man to whom he will deliver the document—if he has not already."

"That will end the suspense hanging over him and Steve, and will send Milner scurrying to get in contact with the man next in line to receive the document. So I think my efficient trailers may have something valuable to report to me a little later."

"I shall be back shortly before you go over to the Veritzen suite, and I advise you to get some rest before the party. You two can take turns lying down."

As he went into my bedroom, Katharine and I, smiled at each other.

Rest for Madge

"He doesn't know that couch can be pulled out to make two," I said. "What do you say? Shall we lie down awhile and try to go to sleep?"

"I don't believe I'll have to try very hard," Katharine said. "Journeys always make me sleepy."

"I'm not particularly 'wakeful' either," I said. Then I took the pillows off the couch and piled them on a chair, and Katharine helped me transform it into two couches. Then at a sudden thought, I knocked on the door to my bedroom, and when Mr.

Chiang Pictures China's Future in His New Book

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, March 5.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who issued a long and penetrating analysis of China's future, today published his new book "China's Destiny" in English.

His program calls for 2,466,000 graduates from various grades of schools, and a total of 117,000 during the past five years.

"China is now at the crossroads," he said, "and its destiny is to be decided during this period of war of resistance, that is, within the coming two years," the generalissimo declared.

The generalissimo says that China entered upon a new phase of national reconstruction with the abolition of extraterritorial treaties and that economic reconstruction as outlined by the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic, is most urgent and essential.

In his conclusion, Chiang sees the Kuomintang party functioning as the nerve center in the task of national reconstruction and likens the Sannichu youth corps to new blood corpuscles.

"The destiny of China," the generalissimo writes, "rests upon the shoulders of our people and is to be decided today when the war is going on. This is no time for indecision and vacillation, when less for the blind following of and dependence on others.

Numerous requests for republication rights abroad, especially from the United States, have been received. An authorized English translation will be ready by April or May.

Forest Postoffice

FOREST.—The clock that has hung on the wall of the Forest postoffice for years directing the outgoing mail crashed to the floor without warning Thursday and was demolished.

Postmistress Blanche Fishburn had been working beneath it just seconds before it came down. It was the old fashioned wooden type.

The past matrons of Senate Chapter No. 70, Order of Eastern Star, were entertained at the home of Mrs. J. W. Shields Thursday night. Thirteen members were present. Bridge and Chinese checkers were played. Mrs. Grace Ruebuck and Mrs. Claude Groce assisted Mrs. Shields in serving.

During the registration for ration book No. 2 last week, 732 families of the Forest-Jackson school district declared 3,500 excess cans of processed foods and 20 pounds of excess coffee. The 732 families consisted of 2,267 persons.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

English Cookery

This column is as anxious as any other to cooperate with all of our efforts. It is also strongly in favor of English institutions, but there are certain places where it is compelled to pause and sound a warning.

We have just had a notice to the effect that "British and American housewives have joined hands across the sea in a reciprocal 'kitchen trade treaty' as local culinary artists began preparing dishes in the best English style." This is where I sound the warning and cry "Halt!"

I am personally going to see to it that nobody in my household or kitchen prepares any dishes for me in the best English tradition. I am perfectly willing to send food to England, and I am glad to cooperate in any way, but I am not going to introduce English culinary art into my household.

"The British have made great strides in planning balanced, appetizing and nourishing meals," states the communication. If they have made great strides, they should have, because they started from low and no matter how great the strides they have made, if my memory serves me, they will still be far from culinary perfection. I have lived, traveled and eaten all over the British Isles, and outside of London and one or two other places, I have never eaten a meal there that I could recommend as well planned or cooked.

I still start up in the middle of the night screaming in a nightmare with the recollection of a meal I once had at Bournemouth. Bournemouth is a seaside resort and we went to the best hotel, where one would assume it was possible to get something reasonably palatable. We had a long automobile ride and we were tired and hungry and looking forward to the feast.

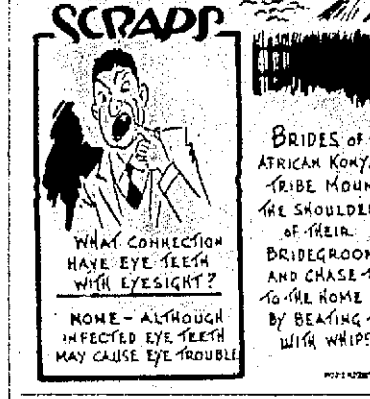

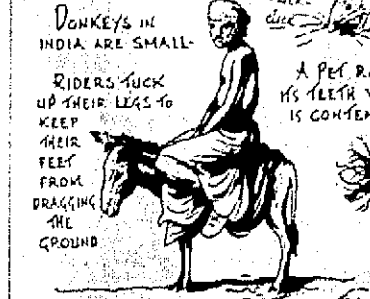

In the first place, the waiter who served us, had on a dress suit of a vintage that no archaeologist could determine. It had turned a bright green, although it had originally been black, and as he stopped to feed one of my brother-in-law, my brother-in-law pointed to the spots on the lapels and said, "I'll have some of that, some of that for dessert."

The first thing he served us was a kind of unpalatable soup. This was followed by a fish course. That slab of fish was cold and covered with a sauce which had congealed all over the surface and didn't taste like anything anyway. I do not know what happened after that, because my brother-in-law and I repaired to a more hospitable environment and went to bed hungry.

The English dessert is usually called a "trifle"—I mean that is what they call it. The waiter says to you, "Will you have a cherry trifle, Sir?" But don't be deluded: it is no trifle. If you swallow it, it sticks around for hours and sometimes for days. It lodges in all the resting places of the digestive tract and raises hell every place it rests.
